AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE NECESSARY TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

California, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts Show Up in Favor of a Subsidy Bill

came useful adjuncts to our navy during the Spanish-American war. Our trade with the world, especially with South America and the Orient, would be materially increased if we had the ships to work up the coasts. Under a prompt subsidy law we would soon have the ships. The law ought to be enacted during the coming session of Congress.

ALABAMA.
REPRESENTATIVE S. H. DENT, Montgomery (Dem.)—I am opposed to a ship subsidy bill.

REPRESENTATIVE J. THOMAS HEFLIN, Lafayette (Dem.)—The ship subsidy scheme, as I understand, has my opposition.

REPRESENTATIVE W. B. CRAIG, Selma (Dem.)—I have consistently opposed the ship subsidy since I first entered Congress and expect to continue to do so.

ARKANSAS.
REPRESENTATIVE C. FLOYD KELVILL, (Dem.)—I am unambiguously opposed to a ship subsidy and all other forms of subsidies. I consider the proposed legislation unjust and wrong in principle and entirely foreign to the legitimate and proper functions in our government as defined in the constitution.

REPRESENTATIVE R. B. MACON, Helena (Dem.)—Since the President has come out squarely for it, I will say that all the Presidents in all the world could not influence me in any degree to support a measure compelling one person or one business to pay an enforced tribute to another person or another business.

REPRESENTATIVE W. A. OLMFIELD, Batesville (Dem.)—I am opposed to the proposed ship subsidy.

REPRESENTATIVE FRANK CHARK, Gainesville (Dem.)—I am sure Congress and the country can engage in no more important work than rehabilitating the American merchant marine.

CONNECTICUT.
REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. HIGGINS, Norwich (Rep.)—I am with the President in his statement. The absence of our flag in foreign ports evidences this country's gross neglect.

REPRESENTATIVE N. D. SPERRY, New Haven (Rep.)—I have always been and am still in favor of a ship subsidy, for the reason that it will encourage American shipbuilding.

FLORIDA.
SENATOR DUNCAN U. FLETCHER, Jacksonville (Dem.)—Cannot say I favor ship subsidy. Our merchant marine while not keeping pace with our progress and needs, has not, as supposed, diminished in number or tonnage. I suggest our navigation laws are somewhat at fault.

GEORGIA.
REPRESENTATIVE L. BARTLETT, Macon (Dem.)—I do not favor a ship subsidy.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS W. HARDWICH, Sandersville (Dem.)—I am opposed to the ship subsidy bill.

IDAHO.
SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH, Boise (Rep.)—While I have read the President's declaration with great interest, and while I always have great regard for his position upon any question, I am not yet satisfied that I will be able to support his ship-subsidy bill.

ILLINOIS.
REPRESENTATIVE JAMES M. GRAM, Springfield (Dem.)—I am opposed to subsidies on principle and up to this

PLANNED HOMES FOR CHILDREN AT ARDEN

Harriman's Dearest Project Was to Keep Family Near at All Times

WHEN MARRIED WOULD BUILD GREAT DWELLINGS

Widow Will Endeavor to Carry
Out the Dead Magnate's
Wishes

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—It became known today through an intimate friend of the Harriman family who was present at Arden at the time of Mr. Harriman's death that one of the last wishes expressed by the dying railroad man was that his plans for the development of the great estate should be carried out by his wife.

HOMES FOR CHILDREN.
These plans contemplated the establishment of an ideal American home where the children of Mr. Harriman, when they married, could establish themselves near the dwelling of their parents which would be the home center of the Harriman family for succeeding generations. It was currently reported after the death of the financier that his family would give an Arden and take up their residence probably in this city.

WILL CARRY OUT WISHES.
So far from this being true it can be said with authority that Mrs. Harriman will obey the dying wishes of her husband literally. Even now she is in consultation with architects perfecting plans to carry out these wishes.

In connection with the building up of the Arden estate there is a story which illustrates the personal character of Mr. Harriman outside of his business relations which so far has never been published.

HIS DEAREST PROJECT.
Harriman from the very start directed his energies to fulfilling what was probably the dearest project of his heart, to make the home so delightful that the children would never be quite so happy anywhere else. As the years went by, he made it a point of importance to gather some members of the family, if it was impossible to have them about at Arden. There he would relax himself and become the genial good-humored man of whom the world would wish he did business every day.

FEEL RESPONSIBILITY.
The great house on the top of one of the wooded hills enclosed in its own ramparts, it was to be a place to which each of the family, and so keen as the interest and desire of the father in the carrying out of this project that the widow and children have felt in their responsibility to carry out the work and carry out the last wishes of the man who had been so clearly stamped on their minds. As a boy and youth, the man who later became master of the railroad, then any man in the world, had made many good friends. One of these was Mr. Harriman, now known throughout the world as one of the first authorities on railroads.

When he was informed in the early twenties that he had a son, and that only a residence in the Adirondacks would give him a chance of life. Four young friends of the railroad man, among them Edward Harriman, consulted as to what was best to be done.

HARRIMAN'S TURN.
None of them had any money to spare but it was finally agreed that Harriman should go to Saranac in the Adirondacks as the doctor had ordered, and that each of his four young friends should arrange to give the whole of his vacation vacation looking after the sick man. This they did.

BABY'S ITCHING WAS INTOLERABLE

Girl of Six Months had Fearful
Attack of Eczema—Spread All Over Her Face and Eyes Began to Swell—Scratched Till Blood
Came—Relieved in a Night and

CURED BY CUTICURA
AFTER LONG SUFFERING

"When my little girl was six months old I noticed small red spots on her high cheek. I did not think much of it at first, but as the spots grew so large that I sent for the doctor who said it was Eczema. I used all the remedies which I used for two weeks, but instead of helping the condition, the eruption seemed to make it worse. Then I went to a second doctor who after examining the baby said it was Eczema. He also gave me an ointment which did not help either. The disease in the meantime spread all over the face and the eyes began to swell. I became very anxious. The itching grew intolerable. She had to tie the baby's hands to the cradle to prevent her scratching. The cheeks were covered with blood and it was a terrible sight to see. I consulted doctors from September to December, but they were unable to cure the baby. I paid out from twenty to thirty dollars without relief.

One of my friends told me of the Cuticura Remedies and I sent at once for a set which I began to use that evening. The next morning the baby's face was all white instead of red and you can imagine how surprised I was. I can find words enough to praise Cuticura and I do not know what would have become of my baby only for it. I used the Cuticura Remedies until the eruption entirely disappeared. The child is now three years old and quite well. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and I never used any other soap. I always recommend them whenever there is a chance for doing so. I will send you one of her pictures which she had taken just after she was healed. Mrs. E. E. Gumbin, Sheldon, Ia., July 13, 1908."

Cuticura Soap (20c), Ointment (30c), Resolvent (50c), and Cuticura Tablets (25c) are sold throughout the world. Putter Drug & Chemical Co., Sole Traders, Columbus Ave., Boston.

'ELIXIR OF LIFE' IS DISCOVERED IN PARIS

Scientist Makes Astounding
Discoveries That May Solve
Problem of Longevity

OLD AGE CONSTITUTES A DEFINITE DISEASE

Organism Is Found in Russia
That Will Destroy Putrefactive Bacteria

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—News of astounding discoveries by Professor Elmer Metchnikoff, head of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, by which it is believed the problem of longevity will at last be solved, has been brought to this city by Dr. F. Mortimer Lawrence, who has just returned from abroad.

If the theories of Professor Metchnikoff are correct, the mystery of the "fountain of eternal youth" and the "elixir of life," which has been the object of the search of centuries, will have been partly solved.

"This whole question," said Dr. Lawrence today, "hinges on the nature of old age. Hitherto, biologists have regarded senility as inevitable, the natural stage of life, and one of the most generally accepted theories, attributed to the condition of the failure of new cells to develop in the place of worn-out cells.

Of course, old age is inevitable, but Professor Metchnikoff's discovery, coupled with the statement that old age develops prematurely in man as compared with other animals. Going a step farther, he contends that old age constitutes an actual, definite disease. It is well known that the hardening of the arteries and the other phenomena of old age can occur even in very young persons, as the result of a consequence of prolonged poisoning with some of the metals, such as lead.

WILY ANIMALS LIVE LONG.
By analogy Professor Metchnikoff concludes that constant absorption of some similar poison is responsible for the long life of wily animals, such as man. It is a striking fact that animals that have no large intestines, notably birds, live to an advanced age and preserve their youthful appearance and agility to the end.

"It is also well known to scientists that the lower intestines swarm with bacteria, which not only cause putrefaction, but produce poisons so deadly that should even the smallest amount of bacteria through the intestinal wall into the blood, grave and even fatal consequences would ensue.

Accepting this theory, Professor Metchnikoff and other European scientists have set to work to discover means of ridding the intestine of putrefactive bacteria without harm to the patient. This can not be done with chemical agents, but Professor Metchnikoff has suggested that it might be possible to replace the harmful bacteria with others which would be a blessing rather than a curse.

"In accordance with this idea, various agents have been tried, but the most important thing is not so much persons seem to think, the use of some milk or buttermilk, but of milk of some other food substance in which certain kinds of bacteria had been grown. On this milk and buttermilk are admirable foods, but the bacteria they contain have no chance against the putrefactive bacteria of the intestines.

RUSSIA GIVES SOLUTION.
The solution has been found in bacteria which are even helpful to man which is at the same time capable of destroying those putrefactive agents. Such an organism was at first found in Russia in the kephir facilities, and then other even more powerful varieties have been found. It was at first supposed that the large amounts of lactic acid produced by these bacteria did the work, but recent investigation at the Pasteur Institute has demonstrated that it is some ferment totally distinct from lactic acid, and investigations are being conducted of this ferment."

WILL MEET TAFT AT STATE BORDER

Governor Will Greet President
With Party at Oregon
Line

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—The party to accompany Governor Gillett on his trip north to meet President Taft has been named. It will meet the President's train near the northern border line and extend the official welcome to him. There will be four persons, the majority of whom have met the President before, will be in the Governor's party. They are as follows:

United States Senator George C. Perkins, Congressman J. R. Knowland, Associate Justice H. A. McWick, M. H. De Young, Alfred Holman, Charles S. Wheeler, J. S. Telle, United States Circuit Judge W. W. Morrow, Walter MacArthur, Adjutant General J. B. Lauck, W. E. Garber, George Stone, A. W. Foster, P. S. Johnston, Leon Stone, Victor Metcalf, S. A. Campbell, John D. Grant, Judge F. A. Cutler, Colonel George H. Phipps, Governor James N. Gillett, Lieutenant Governor W. R. Porter, E. C. Cooper (private secretary to the Governor), E. F. Mitchell, (executive secretary).

The party will leave Oakland at 8:20 tomorrow evening. Governor Gillett will go to San Francisco tomorrow afternoon. It is not known just where the State's representatives will meet the Taft train as the disabled ferry at Contra Costa strait makes it necessary for the train to take the longer route by the way of Stockton. The trains should meet near Dunsmuir at 11 o'clock Monday morning. The meeting of the two parties will be informal. This was emphasized today when Adjutant General Lauck telephoned from San Francisco to inquire whether he should wear the full dress military uniform, with the brass buttons and gold braids. He was told that anything of the kind would not be allowed in a most modest business suits would be in order.

without his assistant. After putting on an overcoat at Mr. Wright's suggestion, the Prince took his seat beside the aviator and the machine rose in the air.

"HIGHER" CRIES PRINCE.
Wright took it at a height of about 200 feet for a while, but the Prince called out, "higher, higher!" Finally the aviator went up more than 1000 feet and the crowds heartily cheered the Prince, who waved back acknowledgment.

As the airplane glided back to the landing point ten minutes later. The Crown Prince warmly congratulated Mr. Wright on the easy and safe manner of the aeroplanes and gave him as a souvenir of the occasion a pin of diamonds and rubies forming the letter "W" and a crown.

NEVER FLEW SO HIGH.
Speaking afterward of his marvelous flight, Mr. Wright said: "I never flew so high before. No measurement was taken, but I estimated that I reached an altitude of 600 metres (1640 feet). It is difficult to gauge height, but I make the estimate from the time it took me from the starting point to the highest altitude.

"The descent I made in five minutes. I came down at a terrific speed. The air was no colder and the wind resistance was no greater."

PRINCE DELAILED WELL.
With regard to his passenger, the Crown Prince, Mr. Wright said:

"The Prince did not say much more than 'fine!' during the flight, but I was able to read his impressions from his face. I never took up a passenger who looked so pleased. I felt a great responsibility in having the future German Emperor as a passenger."

LONG-DISTANCE CONTENTS.
JOHANNESBURG, Germany, Oct. 2.—The long-distance contest in the aviation meet was resumed this afternoon before an immense crowd.

Henry Farman made an unsuccessful effort to beat Rougier's distance record of 50.4 miles, but after he had made twenty circuits of the course his machine met with an accident which damaged the propeller arm.

Rougier, after doing a trial round at a high level, went up again, and made four circuits at the end of which he steered the aeroplane to the center of the field and circled the judges' stand, in front of which he landed amid vociferous applause.

ZEPPELIN FOUNDS SCHOOL.
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 2.—The aviation school founded here by Count Zeppelin was opened today with four pupils.

BOOK ON AERONAUTICS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Wilbur Wright announced tonight that he would remain in New York until the weather conditions permitted him to make an ascending aeroplane flight about the city, no matter how long it had to wait. Through the week of the Hudson-Pulton celebration the wind permitted flights only one day. There was a blitting half sale all today, which kept both Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss from taking out their machines. Curtiss had an engagement to go to St. Louis, but late in the day he said he would try to remain until Monday to see if he could not make a flight on Governor's Island.

Wright announced this afternoon that he will write a book on aeronautics, giving the history of the rise of aviation. He said he would explain many of the perplexing questions which are pending to the lay mind.

GLADYS KERENS MAY BECOME PRINCESS

Prince Schoenberg of Saxony Pays Attention to Fair 'St. Louisan

INTERNATIONAL ROMANCE IS TALK OF SOCIETY

Marriage is Denied by Titled Suitor Who Arrives in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Hints of an international romance ranking with the greatest of the past are being given by the Duke of the Abuzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins have just been in concert in society here.

From Hot Springs, Virginia, have come persistent reports of the extreme attentiveness of Prince Schoenberg of Saxony to Miss Gladys Kerens daughter of Colonel Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis. Kerens and his family were in Hot Springs during the height of the social season and it is three weeks ago that he was reported to have been on the way to St. Louis in their private car.

PRINCE IS ATTENTIVE

The prince, who is on a tour of America, appeared at the southern resort more than a month ago. His attentions to Miss Kerens caused general comment. It was even reported that he had called to borrow for permission to marry an American girl.

Interest was aroused the more when Miss Kerens left Hot Springs. He quickly followed by the prince, who took his departure within a week.

DENIES MARRIAGE RUMOR

Prince Schoenberg, at the St. Regis, denied that he had called abroad to gain the consent of his family to a marriage with an American girl. He resented the suggestion of his name with that of Miss Kerens.

As it is to Hot Springs alone and practically unattended, he said, "I met Miss Kerens as I met other young women. I did not think from the south that Mr. Kerens' private car as reported to be as it is. I knew now I shall not visit there here in St. Louis."

PRISON HORROR FOLLOWS REVOLT

When Convicts Organize Rebellious Mob, Portuguese Penitentiary is Set Afire

FELONS FIGHT SAVAGELY BUT ARE OVERWHELMED

Many Are Mortally Wounded and Others Brutally Beaten for Uprising

LISBON, Oct. 2.—The story of a fierce revolt in the prison at Colimbr, when the convicts fired the buildings, hounding themselves within the burning structure, while they savagely repulsed an attacking party of soldiers and police, was brought here in dispatches.

The revolt took place yesterday. After the bars had been forced and the convicts had poured into the prison courtyard, someone set fire to the building. A large force of firemen under the command of soldiers and police hurried to the scene.

PREFERRED CREMATION TO SUR-RENDER.

The prisoners, realizing the desperate predicament they were in, tried to break through the prison entrance and fled to the prison courtyard and set fire to the building. With stones and bottles of boiling water, they fought back the invaders. With furs and desecration they trampled the soldiers.

Finally the troops were ordered to charge with bayonets. They dislodged the fighting prisoners from the principal entrance. The fire was extinguished and the convicts guarded until new cells could be prepared.

Several troops were wounded by falling stones and some of the convicts will die from gunshot wounds. The prisoners were tied, severely beaten in punishment and put on rations of bread and water.

CIVIC CLUB GIVES HEAVY BLOW TO ANNEXATION

North Side Alamedans Say Project Would Be a "Geographical Abortion"

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS GRILLED BY COOLEY

Calls Secretary Disturbing Element and Says Scheme Would Cost $500,000

ALAMEDA, Oct. 2.—Arguments in regard to the question of the annexation of Alameda by this city were given last night at the meeting of the North Side Improvement Club.

At the conclusion of the meeting the consensus of opinion among most of the members of the organization was that annexation is not desirable at this time.

The club did not pass a resolution against the project, as was done at the meeting Thursday night of the Alameda Improvement Club, but the matter will be taken up again next Friday night.

COOLEY ATTACKS CHAMBER

An incident to the discussion of the annexation movement last night was an attack made by W. W. Cooley upon the local Chamber of Commerce, which is in back of the annexation movement. Cooley declared that the Chamber of Commerce is generally on the wrong side of the fence and he asserted that he believes it is on the wrong side of the fence in the annexation question.

Cooley characterized the secretary of the chamber as a "disturbing element" and stated that all he knew him to ever do was to collect dues for the organization so that he might get his salary.

A GEOGRAPHICAL ABORTION.

Cooley stated that annexation would be a "geographical abortion" and claimed that it would cost this city $500,000 for improvements in the new territory as soon as annexation was effected.

Dr. F. W. Delaney and E. L. Geary were also present at the meeting and spoke in favor of annexation. They were put under a fire of questioning by John Moran, C. A. Sutherland and A. P. Leonard. A. E. Eklund acted as chairman at the meeting in the absence of the president, A. Kist.

AIR-SHIP PESTS DEVELOPING FAST

Would-Be Aviators Seek Funds
With Which to Build
Sky-Soarers

Aviators are becoming profuse in Oakland. Flying machines of every variety and shape are being planned and built, and before many moons have passed, monoplanes, bi-planes, tri-planes, aero-planes and self-propelled sky-soarers will be dotting the ethereal blue in dark clouds.

At least these are indications shown by the experiences during the past two months of officials of the Oakland Aero Club. The aviator inventor has developed into the airship pest, according to members of this organization and there are more people with surely successful plans of aerial flyers going the rounds than there are days in the week.

In six weeks the Oakland Aero Club has received applications from twenty-eight would-be aviators to finance the construction of sky ships which would discount the most successful performance of the Wrights and make the flights of Curtiss and Blériot look like the wobbles of a weak old sparrow.

"There is surely a large number of aviation enthusiasts in Oakland," declares A. Van der Naillen, president of the Oakland Aero Club and one who has received most of the applications for the necessary funds with which to build the cloud soarers. "Judging by the number who want their pet schemes financed, the problem of aviation has no longer become a problem. Twenty-eight in six weeks is the number who have visited me asking for money with which to finance their plans. I don't know how many called during periods when I was out of town—and that has been several times. I have not furnished the funds, because the Oakland Aero Club believes in balloons only."

"Some of the inventors have very feasible plans, too," continued Van der Naillen. "Most of the proposed flyers are patterned after the Wright aeroplane, or Blériot. The majority of those who want the Aero Club to finance the building of their machines bring out the argument that the entire cost could be retrieved in a short time by exhibitions at the Portola festival. One inventor explained to me that if he would pay for the building of his flyer, he would enter the Portola contests and if he failed to win, would give the club the airship without a protest. I suppose he meant that he would be so generous in the event the proposed flyer didn't fly."

"We have one balloon which is club property and that is sufficient for our needs and the purpose of the 'City of Oakland' is only to advertise this metropolis. The merchants of Oakland are all interested in the big gas bag and helped pay for it. We do not care to invest in an aeroplane or any other type of flyer—even if it is a real world-beater."

STOCKTON PLANS FESTIVAL OF '49

Great Celebration of Gold
Rush to Follow Portola
Week

California's early days will be reproduced one of the greatest outdoor theatrical performances ever witnessed on the Pacific Coast, and possibly in the whole country, at Stockton, beginning October 26 immediately following the celebration of the Portola Festival in San Francisco. The details of this great celebration in Stockton in commemoration of the "Days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49," were given to the members of the reception committee of the California Promotion Committee at its luncheon meeting last Friday by J. M. Bidgway, secretary of the Stockton Chamber of Commerce, who, with J. M. Perry, president of the organization, came down for the purpose of asking the co-operation of San Francisco.

Secretary Bidgway gave a graphic description of the proposed program and said that when the question of participating in the Portola Festival was presented to the Stockton Chamber of Commerce it ended heartily into the spirit of the festival and would be well represented, not only in the procession in San Francisco, but by thousands of her citizens.

COURT BARS MOTIONS OF CONVICT COLLINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Superior Judge Lawlor is disgusted with the methods of procedure practiced by George D. Collins, the blemished lawyer who is now serving a fourteen year sentence in San Quentin. Although every court in the state and the United States Supreme Court has passed upon Collins' guilt affirmatively, the convicted lawyer is still fighting for his liberty.

From time to time since his incarceration Collins has filed dilatory motions in Judge Lawlor's court and today the court, in order to prevent Collins from receiving more motions by mail from the prison, Judge Lawlor will listen only to motions made by a local representative of Collins.

Have You Any Money?

Have You One Hundred Dollars, or More, That You Would Like to Have Earn Fifteen Per Cent and Better?

We can put your money to work for you so that it will safely earn more money than through ordinary investment channels.

We can make your money make more money for you because we have the opportunity and the ability to do so.

The investing of large sums of money by individual investors yields, as a rule, a very small fixed percentage, yet the large investor is satisfied with a small yield. Necessarily, the small investor must earn a greater income in proportion than the large investor because the living expense of both is practically the same.

Any banker will tell you that the smaller the rate of interest the greater the security. This is a financial condition disputed by none, but can you afford, purely for the sake of a trifling more security, to put your money to work at a smaller compensation? Does 3 per cent satisfy you? If so, then our proposition will be of no interest to you. It should, however, interest any one to know how they can conservatively treble their income.

Through our methods of investment we are able to secure for you a greater income than ordinarily can be had and the security is practically the same as the investment bearing only the smaller return.

Nevertheless, don't overlook the fact that there is an element of risk about any investment. You can make money, though the fact remains that idle money is like an idle man—neither are worth anything. Our investment is so closely guarded that this element is but a bare possibility and the larger income is thus possible.

For the taking on of but a little greater risk (and relieving the risk is only because we say it is a risk) you open a channel of greater possibilities for a greater income by your investment through us. Investments through our channels will yield you 15 per cent and better on the money and 15 per cent is more than three times greater than ordinary bank interest and is five times greater than the net interest paid by large savings banks. Yet, the risk is not five times greater—not even twice as much—and, after all, there is no real risk to speak of. Where your income may be Fifty Dollars we should make that One Hundred and Fifty Dollars and yet with a chance for more, while your savings bank interest is absolutely fixed at 3 per cent or 4 per cent, with no possible chance of increase.

Fifteen per cent is a minimum basis of the present investment we have to offer you, and it is possible to make three times this amount on this self-same investment. It is not limited to the Fifteen per cent. The possibilities of doing this can be conclusively shown you, and the only element of change is, possibly, the death of the originator of this particular enterprise. While there is a slim chance, yet this phase of the present investment is absolutely protected by the investment being underwritten by two of the largest insurance companies in the world. To be more explicit, two $50,000 life insurance policies protect the investor dollar for dollar in event of the death of the originator and manager of the enterprise now being launched. Therefore, this investment, being underwritten in this manner, and having all the possibilities of large returns, and your being able to share in its possibilities by an investment of only a small amount of money, it should particularly appeal to those people with a few hundred dollars, and who must, on these few hundred dollars, earn an income which constitutes at least a portion of their actual living expense. This form of investing the financial success of a profitable undertaking is a new and novel one—one which must attract the attention of careful and conservative investors. To have the return of profitable speculation and the security of a sound, seasoned investment is a financial situation to be reckoned with.

To any one interested in a greater income on a small investment we will cheerfully give full particulars without obligation on your part. These particulars should immediately satisfy any sane man or sane woman that we have an opportunity of unusual profit and importance.

The minimum subscription that we will receive under the above conditions will be One Hundred Dollars and the maximum One Thousand Dollars; either amount can be paid in cash or upon a periodical payment plan of one-fifth of the amount down and one-fifth of the amount per month until paid, no interest to be charged on deferred payments. Yet, meanwhile, the investment will be accruing a preferred interest of 15 per cent from the time the first payment is made.

The investment offered is an 8 per cent preferred accumulation and participating stock to be sold on a ground floor basis to net 15 per cent on the money actually invested at this time, as well as offering the opportunity to share in the greater profits to be made by the participating feature—an ideal stock offer for an ideal opportunity for a large and permanent income. To secure these benefits immediate action on your part is necessary. Remember, this is the first ground floor offer.

If interested in knowing how to earn more money, more quickly, yet safely and securely, fill out the enclosed coupon and mail it to us and full particulars will be sent without obligation.

It will do you no harm to read our literature and become acquainted with live facts regarding a live institution right in your midst, and it will cost you nothing to become conversant with the situation.

Liberal deliberation of these self-same facts will make a satisfied investor of you.

We are anxious to secure all the co-operation we can in this first undertaking, therefore we can make more liberal inducements to ground floor buyers. You can now make an investment at a price to earn you a minimum of 15 per cent, and there is no figure within reason that cannot be earned in addition to this amount. Being able to invest now in the inception of this enterprise makes these larger profits possible. The participating feature of this preferred stock makes also the greater dividends assured.

Remember, your investment is protected in full (in event of death) and at a profit to be shared by two of the largest insurance companies, plus the energy and skill and success of the Company's broad experience.

Fill out the following blank, mail it to us and the information is at your disposal without obligation.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY STANDS BY COOK

Believes Doctor Discovered North Pole in Spite of Peary's Many Assertions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Rear-Admiral William B. Schley, in an interview today, declared his confidence in Dr. Cook's discovery of the North Pole.

"I am confident that Dr. Cook discovered the North Pole as I am that the battle of Manila was fought, and while I know that Commander Peary also reached the pole, yet I believe Dr. Cook's statements as being the first man to see 'South' wherever he looked. A man that braved the rigors of an Arctic campaign, saw polar bears, and faced a most critical audience in New York when he spoke before the Arctic Club, is not the kind of a man who would tell a falsehood."

When Admiral Schley was asked what his opinion was concerning the instruments that were left by Dr. Cook in the frozen zone, and if he considered this oversight on the part of the explorer a detriment to his proving his claims, he replied: "All that I should say is that this would not detract from the fact of his discovery. His word, the word of an upright, honorable man, is enough."

Police Pass the Responsibility for the Arnargyros Outrage To and Fro and Finally Land It on the Back of Custom

The responsibility for the alleged police outrage upon N. Arnargyros, who was stripped, measured, searched and photographed by Detective Harry Green, is passed along.

Chief of Police Wilson declines to breathe a word on the subject. He says he does not know anything about it, other than to admit that it is customary to subject all felony prisoners to such indignities.

"If I wanted to humiliate Mayor Mott for political reasons and get a warrant issued for his arrest on a felony charge, would you compel him to undergo the indignities inflicted upon Arnargyros?" was asked the chief by a TRIBUNE reporter. "Well, we don't always enforce the custom," responded the head of the department, "but you can suppose anything," he testily interposed.

Detective Harry Green gave no excuse for his action. "Ask Captain Petersen," he replied. "No, I did not know the prisoner and had no grudge against him," he declared in response to the inquiry as to whether his surprising action was not prompted by malice.

"Have you done any private work on the side for any of the tobacco men who are in competition with Arnargyros?" was asked. "No, I don't know anything about them," he replied. "See Petersen," he persevered; "he knows all about it." The officers at the station declare there is no difference made between what are known as "police cases" and those arrested on warrants issued on complaints preferred by private persons. All charged with felonies are compelled to undergo the indignity of being stripped, measured and photographed. The police urge that this is customary in all big cities which is not the case in our lawless criminal, ex-convicts and

Governor Gillett Stands Strong With the People and Can Be Re-elected

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Some of the old fellows at the clubs have been sniffling and smirking because they have heard or read that the kids and madams of the University of California are going to produce one of Decker's plays. You know the old boys at the clubs know something of Decker. They have paid for those plays—not for the literary interest so much as for some of the explosive passages.

For in the time of Decker English was used in a very vigorous fashion. Expressions that now are considered vulgar and shocking were in easy use, and old Decker seemed particularly to delight in them. So the gay old boys have been wheezing out some of the best known passages and chortling all over at how they would sound before a modern University audience.

"Pretty strong stuff that, for kids and lassies," chuckled one.

"I wonder that the college authorities would stand for it," said another in mock morality.

"I'll bet the preachers will be out with a roar at the licentiousness of college life," declared a third.

And then one told how a kind mamma had recently taken home from a women's club the memoirs of Benvenuto Cellini only to find her daughter deep in them and to learn that they had not been Bowdlerized a particle.

But Frank Mathieu, the talented University "coach" in dramatics, spoiled all the sport by telling the old club roysterers that there would be no cause for pulp criticism or throwing up of hands.

"I've carefully censored the play," said he. "There isn't anything left to bring the blush to the cheek of the sacred young person. I was hard to sacrifice some of old Decker's genuine English; but it's all out."

Prof. Stephens Is Very Slow

Professor Henry Morse Stephens announced before his departure for Europe that his health and other engagements would not permit him to complete the history of the earthquake of 1906 for at least another year yet. That means it will be about five years after the event that the official account of the occurrence will reach the general reader.

I wonder if it ever strikes Professor Stephens or the committee in charge the matter in charge that no one will care a hang by the time the book is out whether it is published or not. All sorts of things will claim the attention of mankind before that time. We've already had Messina, aviation and the North Pole since, and almost anything is apt to turn up any day to make us all forget that there ever was an earthquake of 1906.

Evidently Professor Stephens is one of the slow but sure kind. Our jackrabbit friend, David Starr Jordan, was out with a history of that earthquake a very short time after it occurred. He is a sort of Johnny-on-the-spot historian and makes books to order. But Morse Stephens takes his own slow time and doesn't wink an eye when going off to Europe and saying, "I can't get out that book for at least another year."

It may or may not be known that good Professor Stephens started in on a history of the French revolution, got out two most interesting volumes, and quit. A third volume was necessary to complete his work, but the third volume never has appeared. He may gather his materials for this volume during his forthcoming visit to Europe, but some of those who had that official history of the earthquake of 1906 in charge have about come to the conclusion that it never will be written, that is, if the quiet and deliberative Morse Stephens is to be depended on for the manuscript.

High Rents Are Demanded

Every little while some property owner or coterie of property owners is heard to put up a cry that the present fire limits of the city amount to a practical confiscation of property west of Powell street and east of Van Ness avenue. It now is necessary to build brick or stone or concrete buildings in this district that was formerly occupied in large measure by wooden dwelling houses.

The Union Labor party has taken up the matter and in its platform is a declaration in favor of permitting the owners of property in this section to build structures of cheap materials, not at all fire resisting. Of course other cities compel the construction of brick or fire-proof structures all through their main portions and what other cities have done San Francisco can do. And those complaining property owners very often hold their vacant property higher now than they did when improved before the fire.

And while they talk of confiscation, whenever a business man wants to get them to build for him they invariably want rents that would have been considered ludicrous in 1905. I ran across Burns, the veteran Turkish bath man, the other day, and he had a typical experience. I wanted to know when he intended to locate downtown and he said:

"I'm looking for a location right now—but what am I going to do about it? These property owners have their ideas way up in the sky. I can't get them to meet me with anything like reasonable figures. I can and will pay well for a good building in anything like a good location, but I can't touch these chaps."

"Why, before the fire I was on Stockton street, near Market—right in the heart of the city. Well, do you know that I'll have to pay twice as much rent as I paid there for the same sized building as far west as Taylor street and nowhere near Market. Yet the owners talk of not being able to build brick buildings and that their property is being confiscated. Bah!"

Governor Gillett a Great Campaigner

The Republican campaign waits for Governor Gillett. He really will put some life into it as soon as he is through with the Taft reception. And the Governor is a hummer when he gets started. The way he whizzed through Southern California last year was an eye-opener, and he is expected to do something of the same sort of campaigning in this city.

The fact is, the party is depending more and more on the Governor. He is in truth a leader—and he doesn't make any fuss about it. He is the only man who has held the job to this point in his term and retained any sort of popularity. You remember the howls at Budd, Gage and Pardee when they had been three years in office. Well, you hear no howls at Gillett. On the other hand, he has strongly entrenched himself with all classes and there is a genuine demand that he shall run again.

But no one yet seems to know whether or not he will be a candidate next year. He hasn't unburdened himself to his most intimate political friend. Probably he hasn't entirely made up his mind. One of the men closest to him is Collector of the Port Stirling Campbell of Eureka. He said this week:

"I'm beginning to think the Governor will run again. I know that for a time he did not care to do so. His health was not good—nor was that of his wife and boy. But now I think everything is straightening out so he will be a candidate."

Well, if he is a candidate all the others may as well put away their little boomlets, for the people will sweep Gillett into the nomination and the re-election with a whoop and a bang.

Chinese Talk of Boycott

The Pacific Mail proposes using a steamer in the harbor in place of the detention sheds now in use and from which there have been so many expensive escapes. Well, our Chinese friends are inclined to resent this and they talk of a "prison hulk" and insist the use of the steamer for detention purposes will be inhuman.

Well, what do you suppose they are talking about? Why, a boycott of the Pacific Mail. The Chinese seem to have gone daffy over the boycott. They talk of using it on the slightest provocation and seem to think it is the handiest kind of a club with which to bring people to heel.

But in this case the suggested boycott smacks a little of low comedy. The Chinese have already boycotted the Japanese lines because of some of the friction that has arisen in the Orient. And now if they boycott the Pacific Mail—well, they'll have to wade or swim to get across the Pacific. Really some times John Chinaman is quite as amusing in life as he is on the stage. And in fact the only objection to the detention steamer is that it will really detain.

Fun at Home of Newly Rich

A week ago tonight the Frank Carolans gave a great fete at their country place, Beaulieu, which is laid out something after the fashion of Versailles. Ed Duffy was engaged to produce illuminations and electrical effects, and as he long has done that work for the great Bohemian grove plays he is a pastmaster in the art. There was a band and a tenor and the famous trio, Mackenzie Gordon, Charlie Dickman and Billy Hopkins were engaged at a fat figure to sing in a gondola on the lake.

To be sure the rain interfered and the illuminations were somewhat wetted. But that didn't make much difference, and the fete was a wondrous success. When the rain came on Mrs. Carolan telephoned her ninety-seven guests that they needn't feel obliged to fill their acceptances if they feared the weather. But of the ninety-seven only Mr. and Mrs. Dan Murphy were missing.

But what I started out to say was that it is dangerous for society to let these rough and ready club wits get too close in. Gordon, Hopkins and Dickman, accustomed to the give and take of the Bohemian and Family Club life, found a great deal to laugh about in the effort of the Burlingame set to have a good time. Consequently, many stories have run the rounds and there has been much laughter at the expense of our newly rich.

One yarn is that while they were saying "bon jour, bon jour" and "did you enjoy your tour?" and "isn't Paris grand?" the voice of a leader broke in with:

"An' when did ye's git back?"

Again another admonition came: "Downey Harvey, step down from the pazzaza and let this lady see th' view!"

Fake Stories About Fickert

Up to date the Heney campaign has been chiefly distinguished for blunders and boomerang throwing. First, John W. Sweeney took a crack at the Jews in his Novelty Theater speech, and then Hiram Johnson banged the President good and hard. Another brilliant performance is the attempt to tag the women suffrage movement to Heney's candidacy. Neither Heney nor the suffragists have been helped by the move.

The ridiculous lies about Fickert's working as a strike-breaker are disgusting all intelligent union men with the methods of Heney's campaign managers. Sweeney, who is a member of the Labor Council but is in bad odor with the mass of union workingmen, started the ball rolling with the charge that Fickert had worked as a "scab" driver during the teamsters' strike. That absurd lie was easily disproved because at the very time Sweeney accused Fickert of driving a team as a "scab" he was practicing law in the office of Mayor Taylor.

Next some loafer was induced to charge Fickert with working as a "scab" at Stockton during the grain-handlers' strike. At the time Fickert was alleged to have been wheeling a truck as a day laborer in Stockton he was attending to his official duties as Assistant United States District Attorney in San Francisco.

But these are only a few of the desperate efforts to discredit the Republican and Union Labor nominee for District Attorney. Not long ago a fellow blew into Fickert's office and offered him $2500 in cold cash to draw up articles of incorporation for a company that proposed to establish a pleasure resort. Inquiry developed that the proposed pleasure resort was a house of prostitution. Fickert told the visitor to take himself and his coin out of his office.

The would-be client was tracked straight from Fickert's office to the office of William J. Burns, where he had doubtless gone to report the failure of his mission. The inference is irresistible that the attempt to employ Fickert was a despicable scheme to entrap him into accepting employment from the brokers in vice.

It is easy to conceive who is putting up and paying for these dirty jobs, which illustrate the methods and morals of the Heney campaign. All the disreputable tricks have failed thus far, and the Heney campaign languishes in consequence.

Claims of the Politicians

No municipal campaign has ever been more prolific of political gossip than the one that is now under way. You can hear it everywhere and it would be easy to write reams of political tattle as one hears it in the clubs, the saloons and the shops. The trouble with it is that it is not informing. The vote in San Francisco has left the old party lines so completely that there is nothing left but the wildest guesswork. There is no such thing as a basis of calculation. Nothing can be foretold from any previous election. If Crocker, the Republican candidate for Mayor, were sure of all the Republican votes, there would be "nothing to it"—you would know how to bet. If McCarthy, the Union Labor candidate, were sure of the votes of all the members of the labor unions, it would be settled now; but he isn't. If all those who do not like either McCarthy or Crocker would consolidate upon Leland and reinforce his personal friends, Leland would be elected already. Not one of the candidates will receive his party vote. Everybody knows something of what the lines of division are, but no one knows what the numerical strength of each is.

Out of the political chaff, however, one can winnow a few grains of fact. McCarthy is not as strong politically with the labor unions as Schmitz was, but he is proving formidable in other quarters. Probably seventy-five per cent of the police force are for McCarthy, and if he is elected it is on the program that John Martin, formerly captain of the detective force and now in retirement, will be chief of police. That is one straw that has something tangible about it. The saloon interest is also for McCarthy, and there is something tangible about that. As for campaign oratory, that will not change many votes. McDewitt, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, is the only one in the lot who can make a speech.

They Looked at Baby's Toes

Do you remember how Polly of the Circus tells of the grip of the business on the people of the sawdust ring, and how "once of the circus, always of the circus?" And in the same delightful play the old clown elaborates the idea and explains that circus people are born to it—their families have been circus people for generations. Their ability as riders and tumblers and acrobats is mostly hereditary, and there can be no greater misfortune in a family of circus people than to have born into it a child with some physical defect that would prevent its following the calling of its father and mother.

Out in the Lane hospital ten days ago was born a mite of a girl. The mother was a toe dancer in vaudeville and the father was an acrobat. When the baby was two days old the father and a professional friend of his called at the hospital to inspect the new arrival. The first thing they did, after greeting the mother affectionately, was carefully to examine the feet and legs of the new born baby girl to see if they gave promise of the formation and muscles necessary to make her a good toe dancer like her mother. After their inspection they smiled at each other with satisfaction, and the chances are that that infant is destined to do something great on her toes.

Where Los Angeles Lost Out

Here is a little story about business that was told yesterday by one of the partners in a leading real estate firm with more unctious than if he had been telling of a half-million dollar deal. Six weeks ago a man just from the East made himself known to the real estate dealer and announced that he had $20,000 to invest. He was shown every piece of property on the firm's list up to the size of his roll, but he could not be suited. Having spent three or four days looking and turning down one proposition after another, he announced that he had decided to go on to Los Angeles. The agent said adieu to the $20,000 and thought to himself, "Stung again—the old story." Then he went into seclusion for an hour to ponder upon the advertising methods of Los Angeles. "That town certainly has got the tenderfoot hypnotized," he mused, and then he tried to forget it. Ten days later back came the investment hunter. He had actually packed his $20,000 into Los Angeles, seen everything they had for sale, and got out again with his $20,000 intact. They hadn't touched it! Twenty-four hours later he had invested his money here and has added one to the permanent population of San Francisco. "Now that is a bigger story than it may seem to be at the first sound," concluded the real estate man. "Of course, I wouldn't tell it to another man in my business because he wouldn't believe it."

Taft's Many Cousins

President Taft's whirl through Oakland and San Francisco will not give him much time with his cousins, favorite nieces and other kin who live here in California. As a matter of fact his relatives are rather numerous around the bay, but up to date none of their names have appeared in print in connection with his visit to the coast. One cousin lives in Clinton avenue, Alameda. Two more first cousins of the President are William F. and Samuel A. Wood. The former lives in Sausalito and the latter at 3233 Pacific avenue in this city. Then there is E. H. Davenport, another cousin, who lives at 1881 Pacific avenue, this city, and another authentic cousin is Mrs. Charles T. Blake of Berkeley. In the Davenport family are two sons and a daughter, and in the Blake family are also two sons and a daughter (the last being Mrs. Sherman Thatcher of Santa Barbara), who can claim a second cousinship. Samuel Wood has two children, who are in the same class of second cousinship, so that altogether the bay cities make quite a showing of relationship to the President of the United States. Los Angeles, however, can boast of a real sister of the President, and probably the papers down there will mention that fact now that the tax rate has been fixed.

Regarding the Vanderbilt Separation

Appropos of the Willie K. Vanderbilts Jr. signing an agreement for a permanent separation.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was formerly Birdie Fair of this city. She and her sister got into New York and Newport society through Herman Oelrichs. She and her husband visited San Francisco once or twice before the fire and were guests at the Pa'ace. From what friends of the couple heard and observed then they are not surprised at the report that the husband rebelled at the nagging propensities of the wife and about her persistent and determined desire not to leave him out of her sight for any length of time. On one occasion while in town the couple went to the Fair building which then adjoined the Mills building on Montgomery street. On their way to the elevator, Vanderbilt stopped to shake hands with an attaché of the Fair estate he knew and to ask him a question. The wife proceeded to the elevator and in a moment turned and lifting her voice so that all in the hallway could hear her, she said:

"Who is that man who is delaying you? I and the elevator are waiting for you."

Vanderbilt promptly and meekly joined her. It was known at the Palace Hotel that whenever the male member of the family remained over an hour at either the Pacific Union or Bohemian Clubs, there was sure to be some words when he returned and a demand for an explanation as to why he was gone so long. Like her sister, Mrs. Oelrichs, Mrs. Vanderbilt has a temper but not so fiery as that of the former if all that is told of Mrs. Oelrichs is true. After having his wife hit him in the face with her fan in an opera box one night and after having been yelled at by her in the diningroom of a fashionable restaurant on another evening, Oelrichs decided it best to live here and let his better half have New York and Newport to herself. This he did for seven years. Mrs. Vanderbilt got rid of all her property interests in San Francisco before the fire. Mrs. Oelrichs, her sister, owns the Fairmont Hotel for which under a lease the Palace Hotel Company pays her $10,000 a month. The lease is for ten years. One of the best assets of herself and sister is $7,000,000 of Southern Pacific bonds, the price C. P. Huntington gave their father for the South Pacific Coast Railway.

Hobart's Agreement With Wife

Speaking of agreements of society couples to live apart, I am told that just before Mrs. Walter Hobart and her children left on a prolonged trip to Europe about fifteen days ago, she forced her husband to give her a letter of credit for $15,000 and to sign an agreement by which she is to be given for herself and children a monthly allowance of $750 for a period of one year. After that, even the society quidnuncs do not pretend to predict what will happen in the Hobart household. The relatives on both sides fondly hope for a reconciliation. While they are thus hoping there is much quiet gossip over the tea cups to the effect that if Walter Hobart could only be released from his present matrimonial alliance he would not be long in contracting another one. A pretty young heiress in the most exclusive circles, who has always been credited with being heart whole and free, is being mentioned in this gossip. Hobart spends much time about the St. Francis, where this young woman is often to be seen. Whether there is more than a friendly feeling between the two time only will tell in spite of the eternal feminine over the tea cups.

Marriage of Albert Sutton

The marriage of Albert Sutton, the architect, to Miss Marie Hewitt of Tacoma will, I hear, make no difference in the arrangements by which his former wife can visit their two pretty children. Sutton will fight against any change in the court's order in that respect. By this order, which was made about a year ago, Sutton has absolute charge of the children and their mother can visit them twice a month. She must be alone, however, and can only see them at his home or any place he may designate. It was only after a bitter fight that the former Mrs. Sutton was forced to consent to this order. It is alleged a sensational expose was promised had she not consented to the terms of the order. Some months later the first Mrs. Sutton, a former Alameda county society girl with considerable wealth, married A. E. Montgomery of New York, a young and prepossessing fellow who came out here shortly after the fire. It is not true that Montgomery was the cause of the separation of the Suttons. Walter E. White, a chauffeur, was the cause. Montgomery did not meet her until White had disappeared from the scene and a few months after Sutton had divorced her. At the expiration of a year she and Montgomery were married.

Mrs. Tevis-McKee's Affairs

Anything about Cornelia Baxter-Tevis-McKee is always read with avidity in San Francisco, where she captured as a husband Hugh Tevis, one of the wealthiest and most eligible prizes in the matrimonial market. She did this after having jilted a prominent young man of Denver. Her husband died on their honeymoon trip to Japan. She then went east and later on married Hart McKee, a divorced man of Pittsburg. Their sensational divorce suit in Paris is still remembered. The other day a Paris cablegram to the local press stated that while Hart McKee is appealing to a higher court to set aside the divorce in favor of his wife she has been having a love affair with a young Austrian Count in Paris. The cablegram speaks of her great wealth and the many sources it came from. Her family, the Baxters of Tennessee, were never wealthy. Her father came west as Governor of the Territory of Wyoming and later went to live in Denver, where his daughter had her first love affair. She met Hugh Tevis, the brother of Will and Dr. Harry Tevis of this city, at Coronado and later on was quietly married to him at the Palace Hotel. On his death his will left a million dollars to her and a million in trust for their child. This is a matter of record in this city. She got no money with Hart McKee nor from his relatives. The child's fortune is intact and will be for seven years until it becomes of age. To what extent she has spent her fortune since marrying McKee and living in Paris is not known. Friends of the family here say her father has not been on very good terms with her since the exposures in her divorce suit with McKee. She never was on very good terms with the Tevis people here.

Emile Bruguere Back From Europe

Emile A. Bruguere, comic opera composer and clubman, is back from Europe sporting the latest in Parisian toupees to relieve his wide expanse of baldness. Among his set of the ultra and younger Bohemians in the Bohemian Club he is exhibiting his new headgear with much pride and pleasure even if he has not either the time or price or both to pay a little bill of $200 which the Chantilly, a French restaurant on Sutter street, claims in a vulgar lawsuit that this dilettante of Monterey, New York and Paris has been owing it for almost a year. It is said Mamma Bruguere, who was a Sather of Oakland, did not open her purse very liberally to Emile when he visited her at his own instance some months ago. Those who know say she is much displeased that he should have acted in such a way as to cause his wife to bring a suit for divorce. His wife, who was Vesta Shortridge of San Jose, has been in Tahiti with her child for some time. Her suit for divorce is on the ground of cruelty and is pending in the Salinas Superior Court. What the outcome will be is not known. There are whisperings that Bruguere was very much chagrined that a woman friend of his in New York should have given him the cold shoulder and gone off and married a European Count of minor importance not long ago.

Lovett's Salary $150,000 a Year

Robert S. Lovett, or "Bob" Lovett, as his intimates call him, is said by leading Southern Pacific officials here to be receiving $150,000 a year in his new position as successor to Edward H. Harriman as chairman of both the Union and Southern Pacific boards of directors and their executive committees. He has been here several times and is expected to visit San Francisco again before the end of the year on business connected with his new duties. Tall and spare built, with a lengthy face always cleanly shaved and a long upper lip and deeply furrowed brow, he makes a striking figure. The late C. P. Huntington, who found him and pushed him up the ladder because of merit, used to say that Lovett was one of the best products of the State of Texas. The new executive chief is six years younger than Julius Kruttschnitt, who was born in New Orleans and is a nephew of Judah P. Benjamin, the Vice-President of the Confederacy, who fled to London at the close of the war and made a brilliant record there as a lawyer. Lovett is eleven years younger than J. C. Stubbs, who was born in Ohio. Lovett, like Stubbs, is not a college man. Kruttschnitt is a college graduate. These three men worked in harmony under C. P. Huntington for many years. From 1901 up to last month they worked harmoniously under Harriman. It is admitted they will work with equal harmony under the new arrangement and that they, with William F. Herrin of this city, will make a railroad law, traffic and operating quartette hard to beat anywhere. It is known that Lovett thinks very much of Peter F. Dunne of this city, who, under Mr. Herrin, is giving much time to interstate law matters affecting the Harriman roads. The "big four" mentioned get annual salaries aggregating $330,000. This is by far more than any four officials on any other big railroad system in the world get paid for their services annually.

Story on Platt's Nephew

Have you heard the story of Horace G. Platt's nephew? If not, then you will be solicitous about his moral welfare after hearing it, like many of the members of the Bohemian Club are today.

At the Bohemian's recent midsummer jinks a prominent member read a paper which was deliciously funny. It was admittedly not intended for the ear female and the presumption was that no male ear in the grove of Bohemia would be so fastidious for the nonce as to object to the broadness of its humor. Horace G. did enter objection, but not on his own score. He had a young man with him who seemed to be enjoying himself thoroughly. Platt said the young man was his nephew and as his uncle he did not wish him to hear such things. Such chaperonage under such conditions—the time, the place and the men—was really affecting. When it came to Waldemar Young preparing the stunt for the corner-stone laying of the club's new building in this city a week ago he was not unmindful of this nephew of Platt's. In his "Flicker," a burlesque on Professor Henry Morse Stephens' "St. Patrick at Tara," the theme of the play he wrote for the midsummer jinks, Young introduced some very funny lines. The half a thousand members present were on the tiptoe of expectancy for some fun just a bit off color, for a bang-up denouement, if you will. While they probably did not get what they thought was coming, they heard something good. The reader of the funny lines was made to remark during the pin-drop hush:

"I would say something funnier, but my nephew's here."

Ice King of Mexico

Here is the ice man of Mexico. Fredrico Vogel, who has long been known as the ice king of the southern republic because of his cold storage plants and his large annual sales of ice, has been in the city for a couple of days with his wife and a valet and maid. They are en route to Seattle and the East. Vogel originally went to the City of Mexico from this country about eighteen years ago, and during that time has amassed a fortune. All his ice is machine made and for this purpose he has spent over a million dollars for machinery. The latter is run by electric power. It is cause for surprise to hear the ice king say he ships his article as far as Memphis and St. Louis. Asked about President Diaz, Mr. Vogel said Diaz is Mexico and that there is not the least danger of successful political agitation against his administration because the great mass of the people have faith in the President and the government.

In a chat at the Fairmont Hotel, Mr. Vogel said the people realized the greatness of Diaz and were content to have him hold the country, so to speak, in the hollow of his hand. Speaking about business conditions in that republic, he remarked that they are usually about six months behind the United States. When this country has dull times they are felt in Mexico half a year later, and the recovery there is just that much later also. Times are improving there now. Mr. Vogel says he still retains his American citizenship.

Had Cards of Famous People

Thomas D. McKay, who died a few days ago at the Fairmont Hotel after thirty-four years as a successful overland railroad and trans-Pacific steamship agent in this city and the Orient, has left a large collection of the personal cards of and personal letters from many celebrities all over the world. Included among the latter are Lord Kitchener and Lord Curzon of Kedleston, both of whom he met in India; General Grant, whom he met in this city, and King Chulalongkorn of Siam, whom he met in that Oriental land. When presented to his majesty of Siam in his palace at Bangkok six years ago, McKay had written instructions from the court chamberlain as to how to address his majesty, which he has left among his effects. These instructions read:

"Your Majesty Paraminde Maha Chulalongkorn, King of North and South Siam and all dependent districts, ruler of the Laoties, the Malays and the Kariengs, the illustrious, invincible, powerful monarch crowned with the crown of the 101 jewels, the greatest, noblest, divine ruler of all immortal souls, the most holy who sees and knows everything, the absolute king who protects with the shadows of his wings the great, the rich, the inimitable kingdom of Siam, the king who rules the most fertile of all countries under the sun, the master, whose palace is built of gold and precious stones, the divine occupant of the golden throne, the owner of the white and red elephants, the supreme god of nine kinds of gods, the king whom the sun imitates when it stands in zenith and the moon when it is brightest, the king whose eyes are more brilliant than the rays of the morning star, the king who is more powerful than all emperors and kings, monarchs and potentates in the whole world from east to west."

General Hubbard Well Known Here

General Thomas H. Hubbard of New York, who as president of the Arctic Club of New York appears to sympathize with Peary in his North Pole fight and claims against Dr. Cook, is well known here, where he has a large number of interests. He is the president of one of the owners in the Pacific Improvement Company, which owns the Del Monte Hotel, large landed properties in the State and coal lands in Washington and the main railway system of Guatemala. Edward F. Searles of Vermont, the house decorator, who married Mrs. Mark Hopkins and got the bulk of her fortune away from her adopted son, Timothy Hopkins of this city, is his client. It was Searles and Hubbard and the latter's law partner, the late Mr. Stillman, who joined C. P. Huntington in his fight against Senator Leland Stanford in 1890 and ousted the latter from the presidency of the Southern Pacific Company. It was through Searles that Hubbard got into the Pacific Improvement Company, and it was the latter who encouraged Searles to give the Mark Hopkins property on Nob Hill as a college of art for the University of California. Hubbard did not approve of the Huntington attack on Stephen T. Gage in 1890, who at that time was an assistant of Stanford and purchaser of supplies for the railroad. Huntington hoped to find errors in Gage's accounts, but signally failed. During the Civil War Hubbard was a colonel and General John F. Sheehan and other well-known Californians served under him.

Manson Did Not Answer

Do you know why some people are calling Marsdon Manson, city engineer, "Penalizing San Francisco" Manson?

Spring Valley Water Company is a nightmare to Manson. Both by day and at night he sees it in some ogre-like form. When he was one of the local committee to go to Washington to confer with Secretary of the Interior Garfield about the Lake Eleanor and Hetch Hetchy sites for a new water system for this city he made himself obnoxious at some of the conferences by repeatedly remarking when this or that thing did not suit him, "Well, I see you are penalizing San Francisco." One day Congressman Kahn and Needham were at the conference. So was Attorney Griffin of Turlock, this State, and Mr. Woodruff, the personal attorney for Secretary Garfield, who has since been made a Federal judge in Hawaii. Griffin was there to protect the rights of the Turlock and Modesto irrigation districts and was not attacking San Francisco's proposed mountain water scheme. Some times Woodruff sided with Griffin and some times with Manson. Whenever he sided with Griffin, Manson would remark, "Well, you are penalizing San Francisco." Finally Woodruff impatiently turned on Manson, saying:

"Will you explain what you mean by repeatedly stating, 'Well, you are penalizing San Francisco?'" Congressman Kahn tried at this juncture to explain to Woodruff that Manson did not mean anything out of the way.

"Mr. Kahn," remarked Woodruff, "I want to hear from Mr. Manson what he means by his remark."

Manson flushed and in his confusion did not explain. But he never repeated the remark. Woodruff never had much use for him after that time. Woodruff must have treated the city fairly in the Hetch Hetchy proposition because the champions of the latter banqueting him here recently when en route to Honolulu to assume his new duties. The other day Manson let out another yell about Spring Valley taking up sites in the Hetch Hetchy country. It turned out to be Attorney Griffin and the Turlock and Modesto people preparing plans for their water rights as agreed upon at the Washington conference. But these "breaks" or mistakes do not bother Manson so long as he can bask in the sunlight of "Jimmy" Phelan's approval.

Dr. Jordan Will Be Absent

What is the matter with President David Starr Jordan of Stanford University? When the presidents of so many universities are to attend the installation ceremonies this week of Harvard's new president, Dr. Abbott Lawrence Lowell, Jordan is not to represent his institution. The trustees have named Horace Davis, a member of the board and its former chairman, to go to Cambridge, Mass., for that purpose. Davis is a man of education who is at present the head official of the Sperry flour combine on this coast. About twenty years ago he was for awhile president of the University of California. The antagonistic feeling of some of the trustees against President Jordan makes Davis' selection for this honor all the more significant. These same trustees are quietly commenting on his recent address at the weekly luncheon of the Commonwealth Club at the St. Francis. In the role of an alarmist, Jordan said the salmon industry of Alaska and the coast in general was in danger of destruction if the Government did not hasten properly to protect it. A few days after this address the Alaska Packers' Association's vessels began to arrive from the north with the largest catch in eighteen years. Captain John Nelson of that company, who has just returned from a five-months' trip to the Alaskan canneries, says that in all his eighteen or twenty years' experience in that part of the world he never saw so many salmon as during the season just closed.

Real Estate Values

For purposes of their own a committee of local bankers and realty brokers have compiled a table showing a comparison of real estate values in leading cities. The figures show the highest per front foot valuation for retail business property, wholesale business property and residence property. According to this table San Francisco is credited in these three respects in the order named with the following per front foot valuations: $10,000, $3,500 and $1,000. Oakland is down in the table with $6250, $2,000 and $300. In the table Los Angeles is given $7,000, $2,400 and $600. Portland, Ore., is classified in these three respects with $3,500, $1,000 and $275. Seattle is mentioned after this manner: $7,000, $1,500 and $400. Boston is credited with $24,000, $3,000 and $2400. Chicago is down in the table with $27,000 as its highest per front foot valuation for retail business property, $4,000 for per front foot wholesale business property and $2,600 for residence property per front foot. In these three respects New Orleans is credited with $6,500, $2,000 and $500. Pittsburg is classified in these respects at $20,000, $8,000 and $900. Figures for Greater New York are not given, but the table contains a foot note to the effect that a year ago in New York City a plot of ground 29 feet 10 inches square on Broadway was sold for $4,500,000, that is, over $150,000 a front foot, less than 30 feet deep. A hundred years ago, when the same property was worth about $2,000 a front foot, people said the value was too high and would have to come down.

Had Many Friends in Life

In the humbler walks of life two men here who had a host of friends have just passed away. One was David Tohm and the other John D. Monaco. Tohm amassed a competency as a gunmaker and repairer and sportsmen all over the coast patronized him. During the hunting season the man of means who thought the least thing was the matter with his gun always consulted Tohm. At all the gun clubs and preserves this doughty old Scotchman was always welcome. It was always a frown with him when he thought a good gun was not shown the same care and consideration as a good dog. "John," as hundreds of men knew Monaco, was for thirty years in charge of the back rooms of Gobey's famous bar and grill on Sutter street between Kearny and Grant avenue. He knew much of the night side of life in San Francisco before the fire, but like the Sphinx he never talked. Nor did he ever see anything. In all his years at Gobey's he was liberally tipped and managed to save a snug little fortune of $30,000. The Gobey brothers have all died and with them passed the best terrapin farm in town. It was maintained in a big basement under the grill. The passing of Monaco is the last reminder of them and their famous terrapins. After the fire the old Chinese cook of the establishment went back to China, where he is living on a competence he earned under the Gobey's. As a cook of oysters he was considered one of the best in the country.

Annexation Movement Growing

The movement for the annexation of Oakland's eastern suburbs is growing apace. The opposition to it springs from an obscure, unimportant, socially and politically ostracized source, not worthy of even passing consideration, and when the proposition is submitted to popular vote there will be no doubt about the result. The eastern suburbs are ripe for annexation. Since the last annexation election when the proposition was defeated by small opposition votes in one or two of the suburbs, Oakland had taken no special interest in the movement. It has been at all times willing to take in the whole territory lying west of San Leandro creek, but it was apparent that the whole of the suburban territory concerned at the time of the last annexation election had not become fully educated to a correct realization of the advantages which would accrue to it through annexation. Oakland has, therefore, occupied a passive position since that time, relying upon popular sentiment in the suburban settlements directly concerned in the proposition working out the problem for itself.

The advantages to be obtained from a consolidation of interests of the eastern suburbs with the central municipal organization have since through the second sober thought, attained the ascendancy. The suburban settlements directly interested in the annexation movement are ripe for its consummation. At Elmhurst, which lies on the eastern outskirts, a $5000 fund has been raised to carry out the campaign to a successful issue. And the sentiment in favor of annexation has grown so strong that Hayward has become infected with it.

There is nothing strange or unreasonable in the desire of Alameda to maintain its isolation. It has fought persistently to retain its municipal identity. Oakland has respected its position and made no move to assail it. But its intelligent chief executive, Mayor Noy, showed conclusively in a speech which he made two nights ago that Alameda had nothing to gain by attempting to thwart the annexation to Oakland movement in Fruitvale and Melrose by advocating the annexation of those two suburbs to Alameda, but that it would, to the contrary, be putting itself in a position where it would be liable to lose control of its own affairs and interests. Mayor Noy's views were so pertinent and convincing that they ought to carry weight and influence with Alameda's citizens generally. If Alameda's policy is to preserve its identity as a municipality it must maintain its isolation. Territorial expansion will, obviously, be fatal to that proposition. It is unquestionably the purpose of the suburban territory lying east of Oakland's and Alameda's boundaries to join the parent city and unite with it in carrying out its logical destiny.

Oakland's Greeting to Taft.

Mayor Mott has issued a stirring proclamation to the people of Oakland on the subject of President Taft's visit to this city on Tuesday morning which ought to excite every spark of patriotism we possess into a flame. The itinerary of the President's trip does not permit a long stay here or in any other place which he visits on his long journey through the country, but as the Chief Magistrate of the Nation it behooves every loyal citizen to join in the hearty welcome which is to be accorded to him and to their appreciation of the honor of his distinguished presence here, personally and officially, by making the best display of their loyalty by assembling along the line of the parade and give him a cordial greeting.

The citizens residing or doing business along the line of march will doubtless decorate their homes and places of business in a manner befitting the occasion and worthy of the high standing and reputation of this great and growing and prosperous city. Moreover, they will also unquestionably heed the Mayor's request to suspend business during the two hours which the procession will take to cover the route. Oakland should not allow herself to be outdone by any California city in the demonstration of her respect for the first citizen of the republic and her loyalty to President Taft as the Chief Magistrate of the greatest and most prosperous of civilized nations of modern times. Our gardens should give up their abundant wealth and her place through our streets strewn with flowers as visible evidence of our esteem. Of course, it goes without saying that the whole of Alameda county will join in the greeting to the President.

Oakland's carnival at Flora Park last night was a fitting and successful close of the auxiliary State Fair season.

The electrolier illumination of Seventh street from Bay street to Oak has at last been accomplished, and it is an ocular demonstration of the future possibilities which it has opened for that thoroughfare. It cannot fail to suggest to the least observant citizen that Seventh street will now develop into one of Oakland's most important retail business thoroughfares.

That Great Britain should be able to launch a superior Dreadnought battleship of over 20,000 tons displacement less than nine months from the time of the laying of the keel bears testimony to the wonderful capacity of her naval shipyards. It is doubtful whether any other naval nation is capable of duplicating the record.

Running 'Tag' Day to the Ground

The "tag day" method of raising funds for worthy objects is being crowded to the wall. It has reached a point where public sentiment is beginning to show signs of a disposition to revolt against a system of forcing involuntary aid to a cause which has a claim for voluntary public subscription, for, on a "tag day," all of them are worked to the limit. If the "tag day" method of raising revenue is carried out much further it will embrace institutions dependent more or less on voluntary contributions for their support and every day in the year can thus be converted into a "tag day." Should this point be reached everybody must realize what it will mean. Every man and woman in the bay communities would be expected to pay a daily contribution to each applicant in the list of institutions dependent more or less on voluntary aid for their support. Anyone can foresee what would be the result of such a condition.

For every "tag day" thousands of workers are enlisted. They enter on the mission with enthusiasm. Each seller of tags becomes ambitious to make the best record. Every dime that is collected is a direct drain on the financial resources of the public without, in some cases, any prospect of a public benefit in return. The question arises—Is there no other plan whereby the desired results can be obtained without resorting to a form of solicitation that compels response or subjects the one approached and, for any reason refuses, to the implied assumption that he or she is either a foe to the object soliciting aid or is too poor or too penurious? The man or woman who can devise a plan to utilize the labor of the thousands of ardent and enthusiastic solicitors employed on a "tag day" to solicit "tag" purchases to producing something tangible that can be offered as an equivalent in return for the amount solicited will be a benefactor to the public and to the institutions seeking public aid. Their energy is now being employed wastefully in simply wheeling money from the pockets of the public.

New Transatlantic Record.

The arrival of the turbine Cunarder Mauretania at New York on Thursday afternoon established a new transatlantic record. From Daunt's Rock to Ambrose Channel lightship—the distance of 2784 miles—was covered in four days, ten hours and fifty-one minutes. The passage was made at the average speed of 26.06 knots an hour. One day she reeled off 673 knots or 778 geographical or land miles.

In accomplishing this marvelous feat, the Mauretania has done what no other vessel ever built has been able to do over so long a course, and has set a mark which is not likely to be beaten by her sister ship, the Lusitania, which holds the second place in the world's long distance and transatlantic record for speed.

Ever since the keels of these two vessels were laid the keenest rivalry has existed between them. The Mauretania was built at Newcastle-on-Tyne and the Lusitania in one of the shipyards on the Clyde. The most skillful mechanics were employed in both yards and each vied with the other in the production of the speediest craft. The same rivalry has been maintained by the officers and crews of the two vessels since they have been in commission and started fairly on the work of record-breaking. For a time the status of the two ships fluctuated; but the Mauretania has practically demonstrated her supremacy in the eyes of the directors of the Cunard Company, to which both vessels belong, as a contract was recently awarded to the Tyne builders of the Mauretania for the construction of a new transatlantic liner which, although smaller in size than that floating palace, is under guarantee to show a higher speed capacity.

The Mauretania and Lusitania were built expressly by the Cunard Company to wrest the transatlantic championship for speed in the passenger trade and the prestige which goes with it from the German liners, which held it before the new Cunarders were put in commission. Although the German steamship lines have shown no disposition to continue in the competition, in giving out a contract for a still faster vessel than the Mauretania, the Cunard Company is manifesting a disposition to put the record at such a high notch as to make it well-nigh impossible for it to be beaten by any rival engaged in the transatlantic passenger trade.

The Palace of the Escurial, in Toledo, built by Felipe II to commemorate his victory over the French at St. Quentin, is the only building of the kind in the world. The palace has nearly 2000 rooms, over 6000 windows and doors, and eighty staircases, while seventy-three fountains and the contents of forty-eight wine cellars help to assuage the thirst of this monster gridiron's occupants.

Faculty Directs Hazing

Hazing was conducted at Columbia University the other day under the supervision of the faculty, more than 600 members of the sophomore and freshmen classes engaging in a free for all fight on South Field. Professor H. B. Mitchell of the department of mathematics was on the field, and the students understood he was delegated by the faculty to see that the engagement was conducted in an "orderly" manner. Therefore, they called their battle a "football rush" and to make Professor Mitchell think that was its right name they placed a football in a convenient position on the field. Almost who were present considered the use of the football specially significant. As Professor Mitchell was a member of the committee that abolished football at Columbia in 1905.

A football was obtained and formal announcement was sent to the faculty there was to be a "football rush." At noon the freshmen marched to South Field about 200 strong and yelled defiantly for the sophomores to come out and mix it. The sophomores mustered their full strength, about 400 men. The football was placed in the center of the field, the classes were lined up about sixty yards apart, and the signal for hostilities was given. The two bodies rushed at each other, and in a few seconds the students were piled up in a huge heap and tearing away at one another. The battle was picturesque and was probably the roughest that has taken place between the two classes since the anti-hazing law became effective at Columbia.

The men punched, wrestled and tore away, and many of them were trampled on. Black eyes and bloody noses resulted for many of them, and one, J. D. Elias, 1912, was sent to the gymnasium for repairs. Many had little clothing left and that torn and dirty when the upper classmen called time. By sheer force of numbers the sophomores took the victory. The faculty representative found no reason to report any of the contestants for violating the university regulations.—New York Press.

Topics Timely and Interesting

A Blind Travelers' Defense Association has been organized in Manchester, England. Its object is to fight a recent order of the British railways prohibiting blind persons from traveling on their lines without an attendant. This ruling, the association contends, is a great hardship and an unnecessary expense for people of moderate means. An appeal to Parliament for relief is not unlikely. In a letter to the association a clergyman said that he had been stone blind for twenty-four years, in which time he had traveled frequently unattended. He was of the opinion that a blind man of sound mind and health and ordinary intelligence was not liable to unusual risks in railway traveling.

"The royal picture dealer is making preparations for another sale," says the Brussels correspondent of a Berlin paper. "The people of Belgium are still muttering about the sale of the old masters by King Leopold, but the royal merchant is not disturbed and shows his disregard by sending a collection of 250 modern works on its first stage to the auctioneer's block. The pictures were taken from the royal residence to the museum, where they may be seen by those who pay for the privilege for three months, and then the auctioneer. Leopold will also sell all the castle furniture, and liberal American purchasers will receive as gratuitous letters of Louis Philippe which will guarantee the genuineness of the various pieces."

One Mission for The Synagogue

A significant remark of Dr. Emil G. Hirsch of the Temple of Chicago is quoted by Ray Stannard Baker in his article on the "Disintegration of the Jew." Says Dr. Hirsch:

"I Jesus were to come back to earth today the Christians would not admit him to their clubs because he is a Jew; if St. Paul were to come to life, he would not be received; St. Peter would not be allowed as a guest at a summer hotel, because, forsooth, he is a Hebrew. And therefore the synagogue must continue to exist if for no other reason than to give Jesus a home."—American Magazine.

WIFE DESERTION IN OHIO

Somebody in Cincinnati has discovered that 2700 wives have been deserted in that city in the last three months. The W. C. T. U., therefore, has held a special meeting about it, and, after expressing the natural indignation usual in the circumstances, has demanded the application of the well nigh universal remedy, to-wit, Federal legislation. Moreover, the union purposes to start a nation-wide agitation to impress upon Congress the necessity of a statute providing penalties to be enforced by United States courts for this crime.

It is hardly worth while to tell these excellent women that this is none of the business of the general government; that Ohio is still a sovereign State; that the manners and morals of her citizens should be regulated, if at all, by the legislature at Columbus, and that the State of New York already has a statute making desertion of a wife and children a felony; and, hence, extraditable.

Wherever there is a howling shame or a crying evil, it is the habit, nowadays, to take to Washington for reform. Men who ought to know better get up and whereas and resolve to draw bills for their congressmen to introduce. Time was when men old enough to have any voice in public affairs were expected to read and understand the Constitution, and to realize that the Federal government was designed and intended to have as little as possible to do with the concerns of the people in their own commonwealths. When bishops and clergy seriously propose a national divorce law it is not to be wondered at when women take the same wrong road. Many ministers, most women, and too many men have a notion that the United States government could, if it would, and ought to, regulate marriage and divorce, and "put down" polygamy in the States where it is alleged to flourish.

Having propounded so much in the dubious hope that it may profit by showing the right path to a cure of the evil under consideration, let us ask, with deep and genuine concern, What is the matter with the wives of Cincinnati that 2700 husbands run away from their homes within the space of a quarter of a year? Cincinnati is a city no man would wish to leave. All our accounts from these speak of good times and plenty of work. Now it is known that the leading cause of wife desertion is lack of employment and despair over inability to provide for the family dependence upon the levitating husband. This reason being eliminated, we are obliged to turn to the next most frequent motives. These are "temper" and bad cooking.

Look to your tongues and your kitchen fires. O wives who still have husbands!—Washington Post.

Modern Scotch Marriages

The report of the registrar general for 1907 has just been issued. It contains, besides statistics of population, births and deaths, some interesting data in regard to marriages. The population of Scotland is estimated at 4,776,563, with about 111,000 more females than males; births numbered 128,849 and deaths 77,293.

Of course, the interesting point about the marriage statistics is that now all marriages are registered, where formerly the Gretna Green or irregular marriages were considered legal, although their exact number was difficult to ascertain. The year previous to the institution of national registration their number was estimated at 26,200. The number of registered marriages in 1907 was 53,238. Of this total 39.23 per cent were between bachelors and spinsters; 2.42 per cent between bachelors and widows; 6.14 per cent between widowers and spinsters; and 2.21 per cent between widowers and widows.

The average age of all men married was 29 years, and that of all women 26 years. The vast majority of the marriages were between men and women of similar age, but there have been marriages in which wide differences existed between the ages of bride and bridegroom.

Thus, during the year eleven bachelors of between 30 and 35 were married to girls of between 15 and 17, and seven bachelors of over 40 married girls of between 17 and 19. There were five bachelors aged 20 and one aged 19 married to women over 30. One bachelor, aged 19, married a widow of over 35, and four bachelors of between 30 and 40 married widows of between 35 and 65. Of the widowers married during the year, two of over 40 married spinsters of 19, two of over 50 married spinsters of 17 and 18, and one of over 60 married a spinster aged 18. One widower of over 65 married a widow of under 30, and one widower of over 75 married a widow of under 35.—New York Times.

Fifty Men in America Who Own 136,000 Bonded Slaves

Revelations of an astounding character—the result of years of secret investigation and obtained at the risk of his life—are told by John Kenneth Turner, who has been an eye witness of many of the unheard of atrocities he describes. His statements have to do with the province of Yucatan, in Mexico, where actual slavery, the buying and selling of human beings, is being secretly carried on, tacitly sanctioned by the government of Mexico. Mr. Turner says:

"Slavery in America? Yes, I found it. I found it first in Yucatan. The peninsula of Yucatan is an elbow of Central America which shoots off in a north-easterly direction almost half way to Florida.

"I entered Merida, the chief city of this province, not as one who wished to learn whether or not slavery still exists in the western hemisphere, but as an American investor with an itch for profits his only spur. A Yucatan plantation superintendent whom I had met in Mexico City had coolly informed me that Americans were not wanted in his country, not even Americans who were prepared to pay high prices for plantations. Foreigners brought trouble, he said. Besides, the henequen kings were reaping yearly profits of one hundred per cent and why should they sell?"

"Chief among the henequen kings of Yucatan is Olegario Molina, governor of the state and secretary of Fomento (mines, lands, etc.) of Mexico. Molina's holdings of land in Yucatan and Quintana Roo aggregate, it is said, 15,000,000 acres. The fifty kings live in costly palaces in Merida and many of them have homes abroad. They travel a great deal, usually they speak several different languages, and they are the most cultivated as a class that I met in Mexico. All Merida and all Yucatan, even all the peninsula of Yucatan, are dependent on the fifty henequen kings. Naturally these men are in control of the political machinery of their state and naturally they operate that machinery for their own benefit. The slaves are 8000 Yagui Indians imported from Sonora, 3000 Chinamen, and between 100,000 and 125,000 native Malays who formerly owned the lands that the henequen kings now own."—American Magazine.

SHORT CUTS TO JUSTICE

To expedite justice and perhaps to make its processes certain it will be necessary first of all to straighten and shorten some of its devious and almost interminable paths. The report of a referee in a recent suit for separate maintenance in New York, involving the payment of $25 weekly, covered more than 400 pages and comprised about 100,000 words.

It is inconceivable that the merits of this controversy could legitimately call for such a mass of testimony as that. Human life and millions of dollars' worth of property have been disposed of hundreds of times with a record much less voluminous. In any other profession or business such treatment of even the most important questions would bring the world's activities to a deadlock. Yet the tendency in all directions, so far as the law is concerned, seems to be toward time-killing and money-devouring prolixity.

Those who would reform the administration of justice may accomplish a great deal by appealing merely to human energy, precision and common sense. Elaborate schemes of reform depending upon legislation can be of no avail if judges and lawyers lack these qualities.—New York World.

COOK AND PEARY MAY MEET AT NEW YORK DINNER: COOK ACCEPTS INVITATION

'Fingy' Conners Join's Cook's Backers

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Unless Commander Peary declines an invitation to attend the Canadian Camp dinner on December 3, he will meet Dr. Cook there.

"I shall certainly try to attend the dinner," said Dr. Cook today. "I accepted the invitation before I left New York yesterday for Boston. Whether Commander Peary attends or not, will make no difference with my plans."

Doubt was expressed by several of Peary's men today as to whether the Commander will accept the invitation. In a recent statement he made it plain that he would not attend any social functions until the North Pole controversy is settled.

CHARGES COMING
"And even if the statement which is to be issued by the Peary Arctic Club Monday slides the claims of Dr. Cook to the general satisfaction of the public," added the informant, "I doubt if Peary will seek the limelight for some time to come. He has a great deal of work on his hands. For this reason he hurried back to his Eagle Island home yesterday just as soon as the parade had ended."

On his arrival in Portland this morning Commander Peary said: "I feel deeply honored by the reception I received in New York. It was great. I have nothing more to say about Dr. Cook. General Hubbard, president of the Peary Arctic Club, will make a public statement early next week which will deal with the controversy at length."

It was persistently reported in various quarters today that Harry Whitney reached New York this morning on the same train with Dr. Cook. Discovery of the name of H. Whitney on the register of the Waldorf-Astoria strengthened the rumor. Dr. Cook, however, stated positively that he had not seen Whitney either on the train or in Boston.

WHITNEY ON HAND
Whitney is better able to clear up the Cook-Peary controversy than any other white man. According to a fellow passenger who came with him from Sydney, C. B. Whitney has taken the dispute very much to heart. He freely admitted that he had had a quarrel with Peary and that there were certain times which he feared at the present time to discuss.

Although Dr. Cook's claim have not yet been proved upon by any scientific body and Peary's charge that he is a "faker" still stands, the Brooklyn explorer will start tomorrow on a lecture tour on which he expects to clean up $100,000. He expects to lecture in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee and other cities.

After a brief rest in New York following this round of lectures, Dr. Cook plans to make a longer tour which will extend as far as the Pacific coast.

CONVICTS TO RESCUE
It came to light today that "Fingy" Conners, the Democratic boss of Buffalo, has become a staunch supporter of Dr. Cook. At the naval parade of Friday, Conners entertained a large party of guests aboard a chartered yacht. As the craft approached the Roosevelt its captain was about to salute Commander Peary when "Fingy" rushed up and said "Cut it out, cut it out! Not a foot for Peary, till he takes back that gold-brick he handed Cook."

TO WELCOME COOK
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Great preparations have been made here to receive Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who will lecture here tomorrow.

There will be a great crowd at the station to receive him and the district commissioners are planning a formal reception and banquet.

CURIO IMPORTERS ON ANXIOUS SEAT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The prosecution of T. Shibusaki, Japanese curio importer for making undervaluations at the custom house, is the subject of considerable activity among the curio importers. The Customs House is in the hands of United States Attorney Doherty. The papers were filed from Collector Stanton yesterday morning. Assistant United States Attorney Black, who is an expert on customs laws, will examine the matter carefully.

It is expected that Black will report on the case in time to place the matter before the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, as the instructions of the Treasury Department are to prosecute vigorously and speedily.

AFFINITY WILL HELP HUSBAND

Miss Alice Hagarty Will Testify in Browne Case by Deposition

SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 2.—Miss Alice Hagarty, a pretty young stenographer who was named in a suit for maintenance, once instituted a week ago by Mrs. M. J. Brown against Thomas H. Brown, a wholesale grocer, man, suddenly has changed her mind and she now in San Francisco.

She now considers that in Miss Hagarty's case it is impossible to prove that his wife was not just in claiming him with unfaithfulness. Although the young stenographer has been very anxious to get to her home in Minneapolis, she has decided to let her attorney handle the case.

There are some of the interesting details of the case. Miss Hagarty, by a court commissioner in Minneapolis, did not ever tell Mrs. Brown that she had grown very fond of him. She told Mrs. Brown that she had loved him, but had spent a great deal of money upon him.

Did Mrs. Brown do any thing to stir up the case? No, she did not.

The answer to the last question is anticipated will be in another one for Mrs. Brown engaged Miss Houghton of the sidewalk in a contest of foot races, which to carry a victory is said to result to lay the street.

Buying a Piano From Us This Week Means You Save From $150 to $225

Pianos That Sell From $375 to $450 at $237
$10 Cash and $6 Per Month

Store at 557-559 Twelfth Street, Opposite Orpheum Theater—Open Evenings Until 9

If economy appeals to you and your home is pianoless, now is the opportune time for you to make a purchase. People bought pianos from us last week who had not expected to buy for a year. If you pay now it means a saving on the purchase price of a piano of from $150 to $225. This is your chance to purchase a piano of your choice at a price that is not an exaggeration but an actual fact. Call at our store and convince yourself. It is certainly no excuse for your home without a piano, as any young man, woman, husband or father that carries anywhere near a fair salary can take advantage of the sale we are now holding. For instance you can have a piano that ordinarily would cost you from $375 to $450 at the price of $237. This delivers the piano in your home, with stool, and then all you pay is $10 cash and the balance in easy monthly payments, as low as $6 a month if you wish.

TWENTY CENTS A DAY.

Stop and consider that you have probably promised yourself that you would have a piano in your home when you were able to afford it. Surely out of your income you can spare 20c a day, and while you are paying you get the use of the instrument. It means that by paying 20c a day from your earnings you not only are making an investment that your whole family will profit by, but that you are supplying your home with a piano, which no home is complete without. In addition to this we wish to strongly impress upon you that if you buy now you save from one-third to one-half of the purchase price of a piano.

SCORES OF HAPPY HOMES.

Last week scores of homes were made happy by us, and there is absolutely no reason now why any home should not have a piano. We have in our Oakland store at 557-559 Twelfth street over two hundred new pianos that must be sold. Among the stock are such well-known makes as the world-renowned Chickering, the artistic Solmer, the old reliable Decker, the musician's favorite Kimball, the Schubert, the Marshall and Wendell, and over twenty well-known and high-grade different makes. You will find during this sale we are holding that our prices are the lowest ever made and that more real piano value can be obtained now for less money than ever before. Now is the time to buy and if you can't call at our warerooms write us for special bargain list.

A FEW OF THE MANY SPECIALS IN USED PIANOS.

Think of being able to purchase a regular $425.00 Kurtzman Piano (used two months) for $215; a $325 Fischer piano at $217; a $475 Bauer at $214; a $475 Gabler piano at $210; a $245 Hallett & Davis piano at $183; and a dozen of other pianos of well-known reputation that are all in as good condition as brand-new instruments, at like prices. Then we are also offering fifteen square pianos, at like makes, at $35 each. Terms as low on these pianos as $1 per week.

OUR GUARANTEE.

Every piano sold by us during this sale is sold under our unconditional guarantee, which means that if a piano is not exactly as represented money will be cheerfully refunded. Every piano sold includes free delivery, with stool, and if you buy now we absolutely guarantee you a saving of from $150 to $225 on the purchase of a new used piano. Don't delay buying. Act at once, as this is your opportunity.

PORTOLA RITES FOR CATHOLICS

Special Services for Opening Day Announced by Archbishop Riordan

Archbishop Riordan, who has evidenced interest and pride in the Portola festival, has officially announced that religious services will be held at St. Mary's Cathedral in commemoration of the opening of the celebration on Tuesday, October 15. The nature of these services will be announced the latter part of this week.

Hundreds of the Knights of Columbus and their friends will leave on a special train at Third and Townsend at 9:45 o'clock this morning for Burlingame to attend the dedication of the new Church of St. Catherine of Siena. The general public is invited to ride down on the train and there will be ample transportation facilities for all. After the dedication there will be a barbecue and in the afternoon a baseball game. In the evening there will be an exemplification of the third degree of the ritual of the Knights of Columbus. Joseph Scott of Los Angeles, past state district deputy, will arrive from the south specially for superintending the putting on of the degree.

Within the next few weeks decisive steps will be taken in the organization of a Catholic Club in San Francisco. The membership of the club will be restricted to 200. A building will be leased down town and the club will be as finely appointed as some of the older clubs in San Francisco. Joseph Ryan, writer for a Chicago newspaper, said in an interview at the St. Francis hotel a few days ago, "I am surprised that San Francisco has not a Catholic Club similar to the one in New York. A Catholic Club is being formed in Chicago and the membership is restricted to fifty. One of the chief rules of the club will be that a member of the club must be a Knight of Columbus."

The Rev. Father Wyman will preach at 11 o'clock mass this morning at old St. Mary's Church (Paulist). In the evening the Rev. Father Welsh will preach. Tomorrow evening in Santa Rosa the Rev. Father Cowley will give a lecture on "Joan of Arc" under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. The Rev. Father Doyle, who conducted the mission at the Paulist church in this city recently, is now giving a most successful mission in Cheyenne.

When President Coolidge is given his reception in this city on Tuesday afternoon the children of the Catholic schools will be drawn up to greet him in front of St. Mary's Cathedral. The school children will line both sides of Van Ness avenue between Geary and O'Farrell streets.

Archbishop Riordan has made the following official announcements: The Rev. James McDonald having resigned the rectorship of St. Augustine's Church, Oakland, the Rev. Bernard J. McKinnon has been appointed rector. The Rev. Joseph Pinta has been appointed assistant pastor of the Church of the Assumption, Tomales.

Bishop O'Connell will administer the sacrament of confirmation at 4 o'clock this afternoon to a large class at St. Francis on Van Ness avenue. The Rev. Father Cottle is the pastor of the parish.

QUEEN TO RULE AT STOCKTON FETE

All Young Women of County Eligible to Sway Scepter

STOCKTON, Oct. 2. — Projectors of the "Fete of '39" want a dignified yet beautiful young girl to be "The Pride of Boasting Camp" in the coming celebration in the last week of October. A vote contest has been arranged, to which all the handsome girls of San Joaquin county are eligible. The matter has been placed in the hands of a committee composed of W. C. Morris, B. C. Wallace and W. C. Wall.

The fraternal societies have been assigned charge of various features. The Eagles will have charge of the miners' show in Boasting Camp. Native Daughters will have charge of the grand ball, which will be conducted along the lines of an early day affair, at least in the matter of costume and music.

The Native Sons will be in the spotlight in the town class and conduct the dance ball, giving the dance and other features in the evening. The Antlers Club will conduct a stage hold up, the capture of a robber and his subsequent punishment, and will also furnish some burlesques of a "40 character. The Kiwanis Council of the Red Men will furnish the Indian squaw for some of the features typifying the life of those old days.

It is proposed also to have in operation a mine of a later period, with shafts and tunnels in practical working order, including hoists, skips and other features of the new hotel being made use of for the underground workings.

Young Webb Declares Laboring Man is of High Virtue

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. — "The standard of morality among workingmen is just as high as in any other class. 'The life of the workingman is sane, the kind every American ought to lead."

"The laboringman is not lacking in brains, only in an opportunity to develop them."

This is what James Watson Webb, son of W. Seward Webb, grandson of the late W. H. Vanderbilt, and who has spent a year in the yards and offices of the Central & Northwestern Railroad, in Milwaukee, learning railroading "from the ground," says most impressively.

Mr. Webb, who is spending his two weeks' vacation East, spoke interestingly of his experiences as a workingman when four last night on the Montreal Express at the Grand Central station.

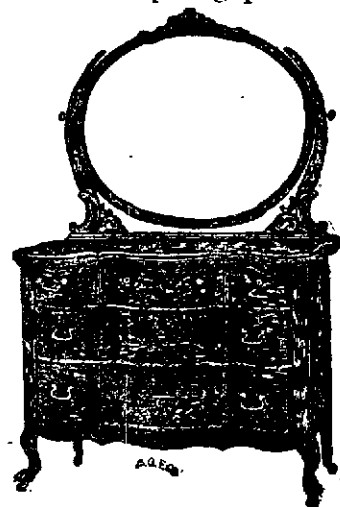

"This looks different from the inside of an engine cab or the interior of an assistant superintendent's office, doesn't it?" he asked.

"It's good to get back to the luxuries of the East, even for a short time," he added, stretching his form

MYSTIC SWITCHES POINT TO WATER

Manager of St. Mark's Convert to Power of the Rod of Diviner

There is magic in the water diviners' rod, according to the belief of Manager A. J. Wilson of the Hotel St. Mark. He has had a singular demonstration of the truth of its mystic power in pointing to underground currents and he wishes now to had consulted the oracle before he had the deep well under Oakland's big canyon, which only yesterday was a strip of water that ran from gutters for the needs of the hotel.

I am direct from Missouri when it comes to psychic influences and the occult sciences, said Manager Wilson, but my mind is open to the truth when I am shown as the saying is and when two water diviners prove the efficiency of their art in determining where the water streams under the hotel, I have consulted the oracle, he said with a sigh, before we had started to bore this well we now have which only sells 900 gallons an hour and it is far too small a quantity.

A well bor' giving the name of Hunt applied to Mr. Wilson to show him where the water was when he heard the St. Marks well was not doing its duty.

Mr. Wilson was skeptical and the man with two switches and a long brass rod had to do considerable arguing before the hotel manager would consent to be convinced.

Mr. Hunt and his two switches pointed at the basement of the hotel and soon enough they began to bend over at a state spot which was traced long to run in a diagonal direction.

Then the water diviner's brass rod was bent forth by the magician and it indicated a certain number of times which the craftsman interpreted to mean that the stream of water was just 70 feet below the surface.

This sort of water prognosticating was all right but the sufferer in Manager Wilson suggested that he could make the same predictions and without the use of switch or rod.

Put me to any test," demanded the aqueous diviner and Mr. Wilson did. He made a tour of the neighborhood where wells of varying capacity were drilled and the water rods located them and the depth at which the bearing strata lay.

Manager Wilson had his skepticism shaken considerably when another water rod man came along the next day and he was given an experimental trial. He and his two switches revealed the secrets of the water streams exactly as had been done by the diviner. Then and now Manager Wilson believes in the power of the water rods.

He will have a new well bored to supply the hotel and the diviners will be able to find the water source to locate the trap pipe for the drills to start it.

There is a stream running under this hotel ten feet wide and I can tap it at a depth of 70 feet that will furnish ample supply for all needs," said Mr. Wilson. "I will have a water switch and a brass rod made and I am a believer in their magic power to tell where water is."
